New London County.

The cases from New London county were first taken up. The first was that of Balvatore Barney, who was sentenced June 5, 1906, from three to five years for maliciously threatening injury to the person of another with intent to extort money. Barney could not speak Binglish, but his wife appealed to the board in his behalf and said that he was a good husband and a kind father.

Henry A. Chippendale, who is on parole, asked a full pardon. He was sentenced Bept, 4, 1906, from one to five years for forgery. He stated that the man for whom he worked intended to capitalize his (Chippendale's) inventions. He wants his full rights in order that he may take his place as a man among men, and to take advantage of the business opportunity which presented itself.

PRINCIPAL BURR SPEAKS. Tells Teachers of Norwich What Con-

One hundred teachers from the various public schools of the city and town gathered in the senior room of the Mt. Pleasant Street school Monday afternoon at 4.15 and for the hour following were interested in a carefully prepared and instructive address by Principal Henry T. Burr of the Willimantic Normal school on the subject What Constitutes Good Teaching. Among the points that Principal Burr made were: The presentation of ideas instead of words; a proper understanding on the part of the teacher of the aim in teaching a particuar subject, and the importance of the acquisition of general facts about a subject instead of a list of unrelated details.

The speaker was introduced by Supt. John B. Stanton of the West Chelsea district, who had arranged the meeting. In spite of the weather a large proportion of the teachers of the town were present, and the special car run out by the troiley company was appre-

Rev. Orange W. Scott, A. M. The announcement of the death of Rev. Orange W. Scott, A. M., will revive in the hearts of some Norwich revive in the hearts of some Norwich people some tender recollections. He passed away December 6, at his home at 86 Highland avenue, Fitchburg, Mass. He was a son of Rev. Orange Scott, famous as an agitator in the anti-slavery struggle and the founder of the Wesleyan Methodist Connection of America, which was formed in 1843 at Utica. N. Y.

Mr. Scott, the younger, seems to have clung, however, to the Methodist Episcopal church and he has been an honored member of the Maine, New Hampshire, Wyoming, New England southern and New England conferences of that church.

He has held pastorates in the New England southern conferences at the following places: 1887, Newport, R. L. Thames Street church; 1888-90, Rockville, Conn.; 1891-92, Norwich; 1893-95, Willimantic; 1896-99, Brockton, Mass. South Street. His pastorate at the former Central church, of Norwich will be remembered with in-Norwich, will be remembered with in-terest. He followed Rev. F. L. Hay-ward, whose self-sacrificing pastorate had cleared the church from an em-barrassing indebtedness and made ex-tensive improvements on the church edifice. During Mr. Sott's restorate barrassing indebtedness and made extensive improvements on the church edifice. During Mr. Scott's pastorate, the parsonage, now occupied by Trinity Methodist Episeopal church, at 28 Pearl street, was purchased. The Epworth league was organized by him. His pastorate was marked by a considerable revival interest which resulted in the addition of several to the church membership. He had a dignified but pleasing manner in the pulpit and was very popular as a preacher. His relations with the young people were of the pleasantest nature and several were won to Christ by his efforts, Monday evening, April 10, 1893, was the date of an interesting little gathering at 28 Pearl street, when a number of the representative young people of the Central church called to say good-bye to a much-loved pastor and wife, and

Local Walkers Make Trip to New London and Back-Meeting of Nat-uralization Club-Death of Infant

President Joseph Caron presided at the regular meeting of the Naturalization club Sunday afternoon, which was of considerable interest, as the committee on incorporating the club reported on this matter, and their work was approved. The incorporation papers will probably not be taken out until next spring, when it is planned to have work on their new building on Pratte avenue started. The by-laws which will govern the club after its incorporation were read by Alfred Dufresne, secretary of the committee which drew them up, the other eight members being President Caron, Hector Belisie, Pierre St. Onge, John Bisonnette, Joseph C. Marsan, Amable Deslandes, Arthur Lambert and Henry Dufresne. The articles differ but slightly from the present constitution, although they provide that a board of directors shall have charge of the affairs of the club, instead of the decisions by a full meeting as at a board of directors shall have charge of the affairs of the club, instead of the decisions by a full meeting as at present. The time of meeting will also be changed. The club will elect officers at its next regular meeting.
